What is embroidery?

Embroidery is the art of decorating fabric with needle and thread. It is a traditional craft that has been practiced for centuries. There are many different types of embroidery, including cross-stitch, crewelwork, and needlepoint.

I embroider the silhouette of the cat - I put on the stabilizer the first rectangle of fabric and fix it sewing the second track

I take fabric scraps on which I embroider the first trace of the heart, I cut the shape and finish all the embroidery

I insert the ring holder in the center of the head and fix it with adhesive tape

I take the second rectangle of fabric, right sides together, and the position on the embroidery, I fix it with pins and I embroider the last track

I remove the embroidery from the hoop, remove the stabilizer, cut out the shape

Turn over and stuff the kitten with small amounts of cotton wool starting from the ears, close with small hidden points.
Optional: at the center of the nose it is possible to insert a small piece of rope to simulate the cat's mustache.
Use a needle with a large eye

Complete all the embroidery

Remove the hoop from the embroiderer and turn it over

Cut the bobbin with scissors within each circle

Remove the cut threads as much as possible

Turn right, with a small pincer raises the embroidery as shown in the photo, on all circles

You can choose to leave the ring points or cut out those too
