

Baby Rag Bibs

SUPPLIES:

- Flannel or Cotton(cut to 8x10 for the 150x240mm(6x9) hoop & 10x12 for the 200x260mm(10x12)
- Thread of your choice
- Tear Away Stabilizer or starched muslin
- Air Soluble Marker

When I used tear away I removed the stabilizer from the bib then I marked and trimmed it as in directions below. When using the muslin I didn't trim it away before cutting. I cut it and ragged it with the rest of the bib. I like both ways so it is up to you as what you prefer.

CC – means color change

1 - Hoop stabilizer or muslin. Place hoop on machine and and stitch first CC this is a placement stitch.

2 - Center fabric over placement and stitch tackdown.

3 - Then go on to stitch design. Once design is finished, remove hoop and using masking tape, tape fabric in place on bottom of hoop with right side facing up or you can use temp spray or just slide fabric under hoop with right side facing down. Whatever way works best for you.

4 - Stitch 2nd to last CC (this will tack back in place). Next stitch last CC, this is the decorative stitching around the bib. Remove bib from hoop and remove tear away stabilizer from in-between the front & back fabric as pictured. The stabilizer will not rag so it must be totally remove from the area.

5 - Lay bib out and using an air soluble marker, mark about 1/2" away from decorative stitching all around bib. Then trim on this line.

6 - Next rag your bib by clipping into the fabric close to the decorative stitching being careful not to clip the stitching. I used my chenille brush to rough up and fray the edges, it works really well for this.

7 - Add a snap at the back of neck and you're finished. X-large bib (10x12) is about a 13 1/2" opening and the Large bib(6x9)is about 12-12 1/2" opening. These are big enough for real babies not just stuffies and dolls.
